The joint mentoring program provides the opportunity for students to have research mentors from both the experimental and clinical programs. Interested students, in consultation with their